I love doing woodworking and I wanted to make something that meant more to me and I decided that since our family strongly believes in the American Flag and all that it stands for it would be a very neat design and my mother wanted a new cutting board so it seemed like the perfect choice. I learned new types of wood and that you want to use harder woods when making cutting boards so they will last longer. I also learned to use cutting board oil to help preserve the longevity of the cutting boards life. I am very proud of how my cutting board turned out and my family is as well. It took a lot of work and focus to make sure that all of the pieces of wood would fit together perfectly.
